

Harbor College Coeds Eligible for Mabel Richards Scholarships

Outstanding Harbor College women students are now eligible for scholarship awards from the Mabel Richards scholarship fund, according to an announcement today by Dr. Isabel Beck, college scholarship counselor.

The awards have been provided through the generosity of the late Mabel Wilson Richards, who during her lifetime gave financial assistance to many women students and left provisions in her will for the establishment of a foundation to continue her scholarship program.

Dr. Beck learned of the availability of the funds this week from Mrs. Norman Walker of Los Angeles, co-trustee of the Richards fund.

Awards are granted according to need in amounts up to $100 a semester to girls who must have financial assistance in order to complete their educational objectives.

Applicants must have been residents of Los Angeles for at least one year and have a B grade average for courses taken in junior college and the last two years of high school.

Institute to Sponsor Course in Childbirth

A training course for teaching childbirth education will be held at the American Institute of Family Relations, 5287 Sunset Blvd. from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., beginning Feb. 1 and ending Friday, Feb. 5.

Mary Jane Hungerford, Ph.D., who conducts the class, states that the increasing interest in adequate preparation for childbirth and the demand for trained teachers offers an excellent opportunity for equalized women to earn money while rendering an important service in their communities.

Background for this training is certification in nursing, physical therapy, or education. Frequently, the most suitable candidates are mothers who can combine a few hours of teaching with their homemaking, Dr. Hungerford added.

The sessions will include observation of Institute classes for expectant mothers, limited practice teaching, evaluation of audio-visual aids and teaching equipment, as well as prepared lessons on theory and techniques, according to Dr. Hungerford.

UCLA Alumni Scholarships Available Now

William E. Forbes, president of the UCLA alumni association, has announced that applications are now being accepted for the 1968 UCLA alumni scholarship awards.

Offered in conjunction with the university scholarship program, the alumni awards range from $150 to $400, with possible recommendation for larger awards. Forbes pointed out that the minimum award of $150 covers the full student and incidental fee for two semesters. As UCLA charges no tuition, an award of this size is equal in value to $1000 or more at some California institutions.

High school seniors who have acquired an overall "B" average in academic subjects are eligible to apply.

Applications may be obtained from the scholarship counselor at each high school, or directly from the UCLA scholarship office. Deadline for submission of applications is March 1. Award winners will be announced the first week in May.
